Henkjan J. Verkade is a pediatric gastro/hepatologist at the Beatrix Children's Hospital of the University Medical Center Groningen. He studied medicine at the Erasmus University Rotterdam. He received his PhD degree in Medicine cum laude at the University of Groningen on the thesis entitled "Lipid absorption and metabolism". Henkjan Verkade was a post-doctoral fellow at the University of Alberta, Edmonton, Canada. His post-doc studies concentrated on the hepatic assembly and secretion of Very Low Density Lipoproteins.

Henkjan Verkade combines clinical work in pediatric gastro/hepatology with clinical and fundamental research projects. He is a member of national and international professional associations and organizations, including American Association Study of Liver Diseases, European Society Pediatric Gastroenterology Hepatology and Nutrition (ESPGHAN), Dutch Society for Transplantation, and the European Cystic Fibrosis Society. For ESPGHAN, he served as Chair of the Hepatology Committee and member of the Council (2016-2020). His current research projects involve intestinal lipid absorption and metabolism, the enterohepatic circulation, and pediatric liver disease (biliary atresia, liver transplantation, familial cholestatic syndromes). He has authored more than 250 peer-reviewed publications in the fields of pediatric hepatology, nutrition, and gastro-intestinal physiology, and more than 15 book chapters. Since 2019, he is associate editor of the Journal of Pediatric Gastroenterology and Nutrition. He has supervised 45 PhD students up till successful completion of their thesis.
